

I don't feel the FCC should take any action that would lessen Indiana's telephone privacy law. Prior to the implementation of the law we were inundated with unsolicited phone calls from morning till night. We now enjoy our time at home with few interruptions from telemarketers.